

You will find below some questions about your project. Please answer the questions as precisely as possible. Based on this information, researchers should be able to get an idea of your project and the possibility of conducting a rigorous impact evaluation (RIE) on it.

If you have any questions, you can contact the DEval study team at: rie-fund@deval.org.

In doing so, also address the project's intended effects and the target group.

Note: This question is about the project as a whole. (Max. 300 Words)

9 Please describe any interventions that you would like to have rigorously evaluated. The following information is particularly important:

- General description of the intervention
- What impacts are expected?
- How are the intervention participants selected from the target group?
- Size of the target group
- Number of participants?

Note: This question is about individual interventions within the project. (Maximum 300 words)

10 Please briefly describe the project implementation process or the process of the intervention(s) to be rigorously evaluated. The following questions are particularly relevant:

- What is the expected time frame for intervention implementation?
- When are the intervention impacts (or outcomes) expected?
- Do all participants benefit from the intervention at the same time, or will the intervention be implemented with a time lag?

(Max. 300 words)

Research questions

11 What question would you like the RIE to answer? What are you particularly interested in? Why? If you do not have a specific question yet, leave this field blank.

Sonstiges

12 Ideally, when will the evaluation results be needed to provide input for further decisions?

13 Access to which data, for example about the project participants, can be provided by the project even before the RIE starts? This can be from baseline data or a population survey.

14 For GIZ and KfW, which standard indicators are collected in the project?
